PRODUCER
OF CHEWS
AND PET FOOD

About us

Petmat is a company that specializes in producing high-quality chews for animals. Our products are 100% natural, which means they retain their natural color, aroma, and taste. Our chews undergo a special process of drying and pasteurization, ensuring that they preserve all nutritional values.

Our treats support natural digestive processes, positively affect appetite improvement, and help reduce the accumulation of plaque and tartar in your pet's teeth. The most modern production techniques prevent the loss of nutritional values, making the treat a healthy and aromatic snack. They are an ideal addition to the daily diet or as a reward, for example, during training.

Benefits of PETMAT chews

Occupation for dogs

Idle paws, or in this case jaws, can lead to destructive behaviors. Our chews are an excellent way to keep your dog busy, satisfied, and safe. They are perfect for travel, building positive associations, such as during car rides.

Healthy teeth

Chewing is a way by which wild dogs and wolves take care of their teeth. Offering safe, natural chews is an excellent addition to the existing dental routine. They stimulate proper gum blood flow, prevent the formation of bacterial plaque, and remove tartar, taking care of your dog's oral hygiene.

Way to alleviate anxiety

Giving dogs chews can provide a much-needed distraction from routines that may cause anxiety. It also helps mitigate the effects of separation anxiety.

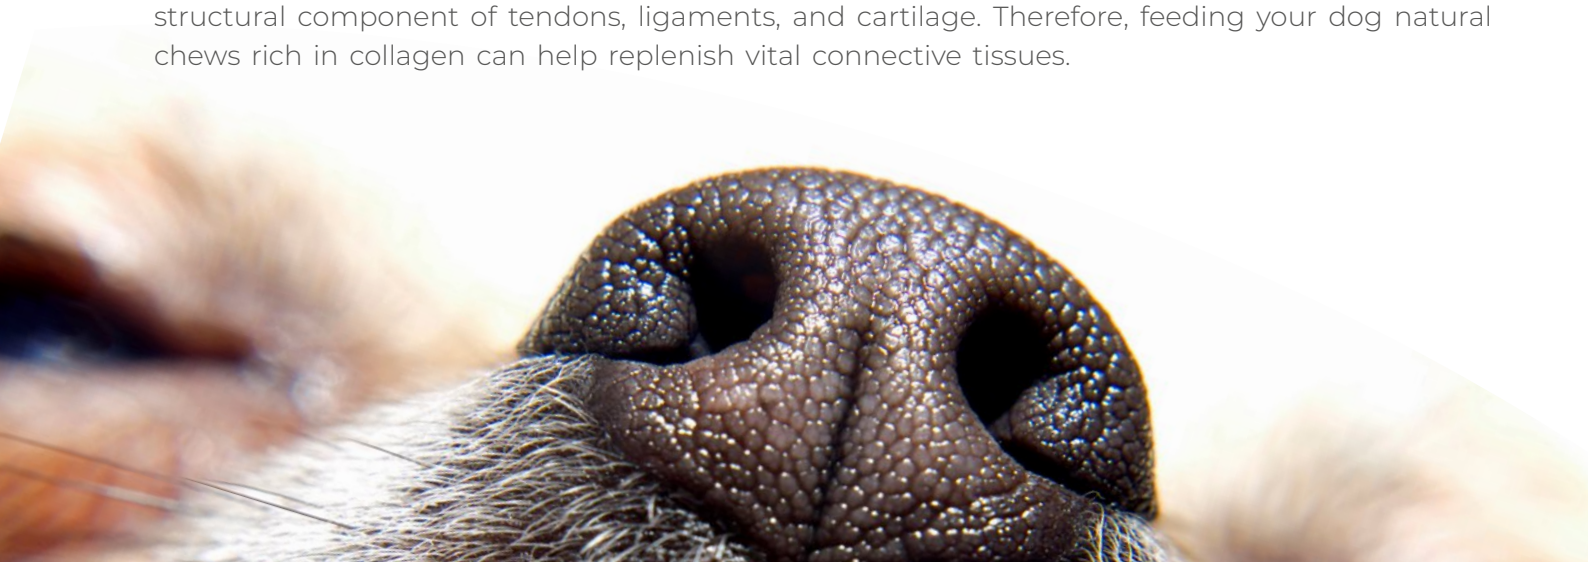

Nutrition

Our products contain important nutrients such as protein, fat, and minerals. They can add calories to a puppy's diet or help an older pet build and maintain muscle.

Hip and joint care

To mitigate and address age-related or size-associated movement issues, you can protect your dog's joints and support connective tissue by feeding them natural chews. Collagen is a primary structural component of tendons, ligaments, and cartilage. Therefore, feeding your dog natural chews rich in collagen can help replenish vital connective tissues.

Fish snacks and chews

Rich source of Omega-3: Fish are known for their high content of Omega-3 fatty acids, which are beneficial for the health of a dog's skin and coat, support heart health, help alleviate inflammation, and can improve the functioning of the nervous system (especially the brain).

Low-fat, high-protein: Fish chews typically contain less fat than other types of meat treats, while providing high-quality protein that is essential for building and repairing tissues, as well as for the overall health and condition of the dog.

Hypoallergenic: For dogs with food allergies or sensitive digestive systems, fish chews can be a good alternative, as fish less often than other protein sources cause allergic reactions.

Contain important minerals and vitamins: Fish are also a source of important minerals (such as magnesium, potassium, phosphorus) and vitamins (D, B2, B12), which are key to maintaining health and well-being of the dog.

Beef snacks and chews

High nutritional value: Beef chews are rich in protein, which is essential for healthy muscle development and function, as well as overall health in dogs. Protein is also important for tissue regeneration and maintaining proper body weight.

Natural source of nutrients: Beef not only provides protein but also other valuable nutrients such as iron, zinc, B vitamins, and linoleic acid, which are important for maintaining health and well-being.

Good for teeth: Beef chews can help naturally clean a dog's teeth by mechanically removing plaque as they chew. This can contribute to improved oral hygiene and prevent periodontal diseases.

No artificial additives: Our chews do not contain unnecessary additives, artificial colors, or preservatives, making them a more natural and healthier option.

Poultry snacks and chews

Rich in protein: Poultry such as chicken, turkey, and duck are excellent sources of protein, which is essential for building and repairing muscles, as well as maintaining overall health in dogs. Protein is particularly important for active dogs and those in their growth phase.

Easily digested: Poultry meat is generally easier to digest than some other types of meat, making poultry chews a good option for dogs with sensitive stomachs or digestive issues.

Source of other nutrients: Poultry can provide various other nutrients, such as vitamins (e.g., B6, B12) and minerals (e.g., selenium, zinc), which are important for a dog's health.

Acceptability and taste: Most dogs like the taste of poultry, which makes poultry chews readily accepted and can be used as a reward during training.
